Bonaire, Sint-Eustatius or Saba

I travel to Bonaire, Sint-Eustatius or Saba, but do not live on the island

for Visitors

What am I allowed to bring with me?

When you travel, you often take your personal articles with you, such as clothes, toiletries or a photo camera. During your visit to Dutch Caribbean you use these articles. When you leave, you take these articles back with you. You have then imported these articles temporarily in Dutch Caribbean. In that case you do not need to pay General Consumption Tax ABB (Algemene Bestedingsbelasting). This exemption does not apply for excise (accijns) articles, such as cigarettes and alcoholic beverages, for which you have to comply with the quantities mentioned in the exemption overview.

When do I still have to pay ABB?

For the articles you will not take back with you when leaving the Dutch Caribbean, you have to pay ABB. You are exempt from ABB as far as the value of the articles is USD 500 or less (see Exemption Table for Travellers in this folder).

6% for import in Saba or Sint-Eustatius

8% for import in Bonaire

What should I do?

At the entry location you report to Customs that you have articles with you, which are not solely for your personal use, and for which you will not receive exemption from ABB. It is mandatory that you report this. Customs will request the invoice of the articles and will calculate the ABB due. You pay Customs the ABB and you receive a receipt.

What is prohibited to bring along?

The import of medicines (not intended for your own use), narcotics and weapons is prohibited. The same counts for protected animals, plants and shells, and the like.

If you bring along articles for which a special permit is required from the government, on arrival you have to report this immediately to Customs.

Exemption Table for Travellers

The exemption is only applicable for articles intended for your personal use. Thus not for commercial goods or goods of an apparent commercial character. The exemption is only applicable for articles acquired outside the island of entry. This regards all articles, with the exception of alcoholic products, tobacco and tobacco products.

- Exemption of ABB up to a value of maximum USD 500 per person
- For persons younger than 15 years the exemption is limited to USD 150 per person

The exemption applies for articles up to the amounts mentioned above. In the event an article cannot be split, and it has a higher value, it will not be exempt. In the table here below there are some examples.
